Litigation

Matt is a trial attorney focusing on business litigation, construction litigation, and probate, estate and trust litigation matters. Matt represents his clients in both federal and state court, along with private arbitration and non-binding mediation.

As part of his business litigation practice, Matt handles breach of contract claims, shareholder disputes, breach of fiduciary duty claims, tort claims (including personal injury and property damage), fraud/misrepresentation, real estate disputes, and non-competition/ non-solicitation matters. As part of his construction law practice, Matt represents architects and engineers in design defect cases. Matt also represents clients in delay damage claims, wrongful termination matters, mechanic's lien claims, along with claims involving the Pennsylvania Contractor and Subcontractor Payment Act and the Prompt Payment Act.

In addition, Matt represents individuals in probate, estate and trust litigation matters. This work involves representing executors, trustees, beneficiaries and agents in an array of matters, including removal proceedings, will contests, surcharge matters, accounting, and claims of breach of fiduciary duty and misappropriation.

Matt is actively involved in community activities. Matt is a Trustee on the Slippery Rock University Council of Trustees, his alma mater, and has served in this capacity since 2013. Matt chaired the Council of Trustees in 2015-2016, 2020-2021, and 2021-2022. Most recently, Matt served on the search committee charged with identifying SRU's 18th President. In addition, Matt established the Dr. Martin and Rena Lautman Memorial scholarship in memory of his grandparents, a partial scholarship provided to a qualified undergraduate with a concentration in political science.

Matt is also a member of the Borough of Seven Fields Planning Commission and the Allegheny County Bar Association.

In the past, Matt served as a board member of the Oakland Planning and Development Corporation, and a member of the Greater Pittsburgh Literacy Council Trivia Bowl Planning Committee. Matt is a graduate of the Leadership Pittsburgh's Leadership Development Initiative, XVII.
